2018 IEEE Membership and Society Membership Dues

Related information ›

Below you will find the dues associated with membership in IEEE, the world's leading professional engineering organization. Dues for the 39 IEEE Societies, through which IEEE provides publications, conferences, community, and many other benefits to members within their specialized areas, are also provided.

Pricing is effective 16 August 2017 through 15 August 2018.

Special Circumstances

IEEE realizes that economic circumstances may impact some members' ability to pay the full amount of IEEE membership dues. For this reason, the following special circumstance categories have been established. Special circumstances are not available to Student members. Only one category may be claimed in any year.

- Minimum Income Provision
- Retired Provision
- Unemployed Provision
- Permanently Disabled
- Developing Nations

*Half-year rates apply to new members only.

1This amount will vary from US$201-US$203 depending your region.

2Except in Japan, where full-year dues are US$180, for renewing members only.

3Excludes European Union countries

4Electronic membership options are only available to higher-grade members in certain countries. Some countries are eligible for electronic membership priced at US$27 (does not include regional assessment that ranges US$4-US$18).

- All dues pricing is listed in US dollars.
- IEEE membership year runs from 1 January through 31 December.
- NEW applications received between 16 August 2017 and 28 February 2018 will automatically be processed at the full-year dues rates. Services begin immediately.
- NEW applications received between 1 March and 15 August 2018 will automatically be processed for half-year membership ending 31 December 2018 at the half-year dues rates. Exception is when the applicant specifically requests their application be processed for the full year. However, we cannot guarantee availability of back issues of all publications for the first half of the calendar year.
- Membership in IEEE Technical Societies involves additional dues. See the table below for information on Society membership dues.
- All IEEE members are given online access to Potentials magazine as part of their basic IEEE membership. Student members in the US and Canada receive Potentials in print as part of their dues. For Student members from all other countries and for IEEE higher-grade members who wish to receive a print subscription to Potentials, see rates provided below.
